Chuck Warbington, PE
City Manager
City of Lawrenceville

Chuck Warbington is a life-long resident of Gwinnett County and a member of the Dacula Football Sports Hall of Fame. He is a graduate of Georgia Tech with a Bachelor of Civil Engineering degree. While at Georgia Tech, he was a wide receiver for the 1990 National Championship Football Team. Chuck and his wife, Stacey, have been married for over 24 years and have 4 children. Chuck is a registered professional engineer having worked as a principal manager for a local Architectural/Engineering company (Pond & Company) for over 13 years. He began the leadership of Gwinnett Village in January 2006 leading the efforts in forming the largest Community Improvement District (CID) in the state in mid-2006. In 2016, he was appointed City Manager for the City of Lawrenceville where he oversees just under a $200 million budget and just over 300 employees. As a graduate of Leadership Gwinnett, Chuck is serving his community in many capacities including as a board member for the Gwinnett Coalition for Health & Human Services and the Fort Daniel Historical Foundation. He also serves on the Quantum National Bank Board of Directors as well as the Atlanta Transit Link Authority Board (ATL). Chuck is past chairman of the Gwinnett County Planning Commission, past president of the Rotary Club of Gwinnett and past executive board member of the Gwinnett Chamber. He was selected by the Georgia Engineering Alliance as Engineer of the Year in Private Practice for the state of Georgia in 2003 and was honored as one of Georgia Trend's 40 under 40 for 2006. In 2012, Chuck was selected by the national publication CE News as one of fifteen Rising Stars in Civil Engineering.
